Huntsville Gem & Mineral Society Meeting Minutes, Oct 22, 2024, opened at 6:30 by new President Shelley Curran, who recently replaced Mike Harrison. Thanks Mike for excellent service. 35 attendees.

Voting for four open Board Director slots results: James Mallonee, Doug Blakeslee, Ashley Pool, James Yack. Gene Powers. Les Bartel retired as a Director - many thanks for your service.

Theresa Chivers moved from Director to Membership Chair.

Other Board members were confirmed with no competition - Shelley Curran, President; Anthony Zwilling, Vice President; Deb Epperson, Recording Secretary; Theresa Chivers, Treasurer; Bill Friday, Newsletter Editor, Mike Harrison, Past President. All members present voted in favor of these, none opposed.

Sincere Thanks to all of these volunteer members who have accepted roles to lead us through 2025.

Discussion - We need written job descriptions for Committee Chairs - if members knew what they were going to need to do in each position they might be more inclined to accept the jobs, and for ones who did accept the positions they would be starting out knowing what was required.

Kari Mackay volunteered to handle advertising for the Fall Show.

Thank you to Theresa Chivers for new Fall Show scavenger hunt where the items to find were located in vendor booths, and kids would converse with vendor about what they were selling and receive a token prize from each. Previously the kids found posters throughout the room containing a number matching the sheet they carried, and the answer to a question on the sheet was on the poster.

Thank Judy Osmundson for the amazing black cloth pop-up tent containing the display cases with fluorescent rocks, a great improvement over the big pvc frame covered with black plastic that we have used for years, and which had a pipe across the entrance that created a serious trip hazard - not a problem with the new tent. Besides the new tent was erected in ten minutes by three people where the old one needed six people on ladders and almost an hour to assemble, with 50' feet of black plastic discarded every year. Note: the fluorescent rock tent needs a fan because of the heat generated by the fluorescent light fixtures.

New member introductions - There were twelve: Amber Hart, William Burrus, Annette Burrus, Kari Mackay, Evan Mackay, Emma Mackay, Kaitlyn Mathews, Joseph Mathews, Alexis Quinn, Royal Ritchey, Mauri Heath, & Markus Gross

Treasurers Report - As of Sept 30, 2024 - The Club General Budget acct $5,047.

Lapidary - new intarsia machine obtained from Louise Fletcher, who has scheduled a class for Nov 12 & 19 to teach how to use it to make jewelry.

Metals Kathy Bowman - spinner ring class upcoming

RJC Leslie Malakowsky - everything she described is in the newsletter

Pups - opals - fossils - double refraction in calcite crystals - Thurs Oct 24, 6:30.

Meeting adjourned 7:45.

Deb Epperson, acting Recording Secretary

Lapidary Holiday Closing

The Lapidary Lab (not the Education Center in general) will be closed Thanksgiving week, November 25th, 27th, and 29th. Lab also will be closed December 23rd & 30th.

The Lab will be open Tuesdays from 9am to 2pm on Nov 19, 26, Dec 3, 10, and 17 - closed Dec 24 & 31.

Shelley Curran, President

There's been a few things of note happening since last month.

We had our first intarsia class, taught by Louise Fletcher. The class was full with four attendees. The Club owns one intarsia machine and one flat lap and sharing among four people went well. A great start was made on student pieces. The second part of the class will be held later, with more classes in the future.

Big change in the Christmas dinner this year. We decided to hold it on a Monday here at the Ed Center. The reason behind this is because Carrabba's went from free to $300.00 just to make our reservations. So, we are having a Potluck Dinner on December 9th from 6-8:30 here. Keeping it simple we're asking members to bring soup, salad, bread or desert. We will still do a gift exchange for those wishing to participate.

The updated Constitution and ByLaws, approved by the Board of Directors for members to review and vote for comment and/or acceptance at the November 26th Meeting.

And last but not least the Auction will be Saturday March 22nd. Save the date. Here's hoping everyone has a fabulous thanksgiving with family and friends and has much to be thankful for.
Shelley

Metal Smithing/Silver Group by Kathy Bowman & Shelley Curran

INTRODUCTION to METAL CORRUGATION.

Monday 2nd *

Thursday 5th

* please note change in days.

Tools and Materials. Kit cost: $6.00

Micro fold brake

Sterling silver sheet, 32 g

Copper sheet, 28 g

Copper and silver wire, 20 g

Corrugation is yet another way to give texture and form to your metal. Since corrugation greatly strengthens the metal ( think cardboard box ) you can use a much thinner gauge of metal. A thinner gauge of metal translates to less expense.

We'll do some simple corrugating. The kit will have enough metal to make a pair of earrings or a pendant in silver and also in copper. Also some copper sheet to texture for future projects.

Facebook Users: The Metalsmithing class has our own page in Facebook groups. You can see info on classes, examples of project classes and other general information. Members of the group can post their finished class projects. Our class page is HGMS Metalsmithing Group.

Mineral of the Month – Bornite - By Leslie A. Malakowsky

This month's mineral was inspired by the colorful lights recently visible in North Alabama night skies. The aurora borealis (also known as the northern lights) is a natural light display resulting from disturbances in the Earth's magnetosphere, the region of space surrounding Earth in which charged particles are affected by Earth's magnetic field. The Sun released powerful streams of charged particles (solar wind) that disrupted Earth's magnetosphere several times this year. On at least two of those occasions, the resulting lights were visible as far south as North Alabama.

Bornite is a sulfide mineral with the chemical formula  $\text{Cu}_5\text{FeS}_4$ . It occurs widely in porphyritic copper deposits meaning that copper ore formed from hydrothermal fluids from a magma chamber below older porphyritic (consisting of coarse-grained crystals dispersed in a fine-grained matrix) igneous rocks. Bornite can also be found in mafic (rich in magnesium and iron) igneous rocks, in contact metamorphic coarse-grained rocks, in pegmatites (igneous rocks with large interlocking crystals) and in copper-rich sedimentary rocks.

The amount of copper (Cu) and iron (Fe) can vary. A solid solution (homogeneous mixing of two or more elements in hydrothermal fluids) can occur potentially creating another sulfide mineral called chalcopyrite ( $\text{CuFeS}_2$ ). Sometimes the solution can become unstable, for example, due to a lower temperature. When that happens, exsolution can occur in which chalcopyrite separates from the solution and forms small bubble-like inclusions (called blebs) within bornite or small plates or flakes (called lamellae) on bornite.

This mineral crystallizes in the orthorhombic system so crystals commonly form as rectangular prisms. It can also occur in granular, massive, pseudocubic, dodecahedral, and octahedral crystal habits. Bornite has a grayish-black streak and a Mohs hardness of 3 – 3.25, which is as hard as calcite, but not quite as hard as a copper penny.

When it's fresh, its color ranges from copper-red to bronze-brown to black. Gradually, with exposure to air, the surface tarnishes to beautiful iridescent shades of pink, blue, and purple. Chalcopyrite can tarnish, too, producing "peacock" colors, but fresh chalcopyrite is brassy yellow, has a greenish-black streak, and is harder than bornite with a Mohs hardness of 3.5 – 4, harder than calcite and as hard as fluorite.

Bornite was first discovered in 1725

in the Ore Mountains in what is now the Czech Republic. Originally, this mineral was given various Latin names that were translated in 1802 to "purple copper ore" and "variegated copper ore". In 1845, the mineral was renamed bornite by Austrian mineralogist Wilhelm von Haidinger (1795-1871) in honor of his predecessor, Ignaz von Born (1742-1791). Today, bornite is nicknamed peacock copper or peacock ore due to its striking iridescence.

This mineral is an important copper ore having a copper content of about 63 percent by mass, but chalcopyrite is the most abundant copper ore and is more common than bornite. Bornite is found worldwide in igneous and metamorphic rocks with notable localities in Southeast Asia, Europe, the Middle East, Russia, and Australia, and in Connecticut and Montana in the United States. Both bornite and chalcopyrite make nice shelf specimens (especially if you're wowed by the peacock colors), and both are used in jewelry making.
